Expanded Callahan Financial Planning Office Now Open

Omaha, Neb. – Callahan Financial Planning, an independent financial planning and investment management company, is celebrating the end of a major renovation – and a new, larger office space – as it marches toward five years of impressive growth.

The firm, located at 3157 Farnam St., opened in Omaha in September 2010. Callahan Financial Planning manages $68 million in assets and has become the largest NAPFA financial planning practice in Nebraska.

At capacity in its original location, the firm added square footage by expanding into the space next door, formerly occupied by Hutch. (The vintage furniture store moved into a larger Midtown Crossing location at 33rd & Farnam St.) The finished Callahan office is approximately 50 percent bigger than before and includes more conference and office space, along with a shared working space to support collaboration among staff.

A Nebraska registered investment advisor, Callahan Financial Planning (www.callahanfp.com) offers fee-only financial planning and investment advisory services, embracing the view that “commissions and hidden compensation have no business in financial planning.” The company maintains a stringent standard of fiduciary responsibility to each client with conflict-free financial planning.

Midtown Crossing. Five years old. And just getting started. This is what a strong urban core looks like – a diverse neighborhood where restaurants and retail, community events and individual experiences come to life. An energetic embrace when you want to live loudly, a quiet escape when you don't. We're dinner conversation with friends and shopping you won't find anywhere else. 16 acres of life's little extras: activity, serenity, community. Perfectly centered. East of expected.
